To my friends, family, supporters, haters:

I never thought much past the first day. It was an idea. I always had ideas. Still do, too. But then I decided to make it real. Why do it later when you can do it now? The goal was simple. To do this thing the way I wanted to do it, and not give a crap about what anyone else had to say about it. Three years later, I've continued to go down that path. This chapter, however, is coming to a close.

Due to our rent being more than doubled, I will be closing Harry's Hot Sandwiches. Our lease has ended, and to continue operating in the Theatre Building, we're faced with a steep increase in our rent that is far too large to absorb.

Our last day of operation will be April 21. Our app will be disabled the weekend before.

It breaks my heart to think about how important the shop has been to so many. Some folks will be sad. Some of them happy. And of course, some will still come in during our last operating week and ask if we just opened. I love beacon. I've been working behind counters in this city for over ten years. I've made some of my closest friends at this shop. Thank you everyone for the support.
